Recommendation of Japanese tea produced at the foot of Mt.FUJI

One of Japan's leading tea growing regions

SHIZUOKA

Mt.FUJI is in SHIZUOKA

Shizuoka Prefecture is one of the leading tea-producing regions in Japan, accounting for approximately 40% of the nation's tea cultivation area, fresh leaf harvest, and rough tea production. Shizuoka tea is known as one of the three most famous teas in Japan (Shizuoka tea, Uji tea, and Sayama tea). It is characterized by its deep, mellow aroma and rich flavor due to the deep steaming process. The climate of Shizuoka Prefecture is mild and unvarying in the coastal areas, but the temperature varies greatly in the mountainous areas, and this difference in climate produces the different flavors of the tea.
